TEACHING AND STUDYING SERVICE

Our aim is to give the best possible support to our students throughout their studies and into their careers. Academic and Student Services provides advice and support to teaching staff and students at TUHH.

The Student Counselling Centre provides information to prospective students through events such as taster days (Schnupperstudium) and TUHH4u. It also supports students via programmes like StartING@TUHH and FinishING, as well as providing individual psychological support. The student service, STUDIS, is a contact point for all student matters from application to de-registration. The Examination Office advises students on all examination matters at all stages of study up to doctoral degrees. The International Office is a contact point for promoting international mobility both in terms of advising and supporting students who want to study abroad, and supporting international students at TUHH. The Career Center helps students and graduates at TUHH with the transition from university to career via a wide range of workshops, various communication platforms and individual counselling. The Policy Office handles quality assurance for study programmes and teaching, as well as matters of capacity. It supports the schools of study in developing, organising, accrediting and evaluating attractive and internationally competitive courses, and works to continually optimise processes. The Coordinating Office for Complementary Courses is responsible for acquiring and supporting such courses. Finally, the schools of study provide comprehensive support via their respective offices. Academic and Student Services is also responsible for planning courses, and providing support and administration services for lecturers and student teaching staff.

The Academic and Student Services staff's priority is helping students and teaching staff to achieve their aims by providing extensive information, advice, support and other services. To achieve this, our activities and staff are combined in one department, which is located in the heart of the campus.
